To: Parents of all pupils at King William's College and the Buchan

Dear Parents

I am delighted to inform you that King William's College has been named International Baccalaureate School of the Year in the latest Sunday Times Parent Power, the definitive guide to the best state and independent schools, to be published online with the Sunday Times on November 16th.

The award has been introduced to recognise the success of schools which offer the IB as an alternative to A levels. The College has won the title of IB School of the Year following our consistent success since the introduction of the Diploma programme and our outstanding results this summer which place us in the top twenty fee-paying secondary schools in the northwest.

This award is a tribute to the hard work of our Sixth Form pupils and the dedication of our teachers who help them to make the most of the IB course of study and fulfil their academic potential. It also, of course, reflects all the positive support that parents provide. It is a marvellous cause for celebration for the whole College community.

We are all very proud that King William's has been recognised in this way and will strive to build on our success in the future.

Yours sincerely
